

Directions: Cut out each clue and glue them down on a plain piece of paper in order of when they were found in the book "Mystery in Rocky Mountain National Park".

Behind another picture in the photo scrapbook was a tiny empty envelope that had a message written inside of it. The message said, "Find the old man of the mountain. He'll show you the way."

Found the numbers 8789 and a red arrow on the floor of a cabin in Willow Park and figured out with the help of a map, compass, and the red arrows a place with that elevation on the red line called Twin Owls.

A note Jake's grandma gave him from his grandpa.

On the bottom of page 27 in the photo scrapbook was a series of dashes and dots. This was a Morse code message that read, "Emerald Roots."

Jasper gave him a package that was sent by the keeper, Mather, from New Mexico. It was a small wooden box with something heavy inside of it.

On the back of a photo on page 27 of an old cabin was a message that said, "Meet Jasper the week of May 28th at RMNP."

Found in a crack that goes inside of the Twin Owls hidden behind some cement was a metal box with an old journal inside and a train ticket. The journal had two pictures of an arrowhead sketched in it. On the metal box was written, "If you've found this, then more likely than not, you've been followed. So, please heed my instructions."

In the ball of roots under a tree by Emerald Lake was an old bottle with a piece of leather in it. On the piece of leather was a message that said, "Find the Apache Fort."

Longitude and latitude coordinates 40.433 and 105.7438 found on the side of a rock where the Apache Fort was.
